Directors: Matthew Lorber, Ray Stata, Philip L. Lowe, Joel Moses, Gordon C. McKeague, Arthur Contas.

Areas of Work: Designs, manufactures and markets electronic components and subsystems used for the acquisition, conditioning, conversion, transmission and display of analog and digital data in precision measurement and control systems. Linear integrated circuits accounts for the majority of the Company's sales. These devices acquire, condition, amplify and otherwise process signal from real-world sensors while the information is in analog form, convert the information to a digital form that can be read by a microprocessor or computer and further process the signals after conversion to digital form. Sold predominantly to original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), these products are incorporated into instruments and systems used in a wide variety of end-use applications including laboratory automation, industrial automation, defense/avionics, telecommunications and computers and peripherals.

Areas of Work: Engaged primarily in the design, development, manufacture and marketing of computer-controlled systems which automate critical phases of the product cycle, including concept development, detailed design drafting, and production. These systems, which include both hardware and software, enable customers to automate certain repetitive design and manufacturing processes which generally are performed manually with conventional equipment. The Company's products are used in the design and preparation of graphical data in a wide spectrum of industries, including the automotive, aerospace, communication, electronics, and mapping industries, and in automated production and testing in the electronics and semiconductor industries, and architectural and construction firms for structural designs.

Officers: Thomas C. Beiseker, president & chief executive officer; Milton L. Sneller, exec. v.p. & chief operating officer; G.L. Milliken, v.p.-planning & contracts; Alan R. Steel, v.p.-finance, chief financial officer & treasurer; Stephen M. Andres, v.p.-administration; Richard G. Littman, secretary.

Data-Design Laboratories

Directors: Thomas C. Beiseker, Russell R. O'Neill, Hugh E. Witt, John C. Hall, Eugene P. Wilkinson, Rockell N. Hankin, Milton L. Sneller.

Areas of Work: Engaged in two major areas — engineering services and engineered products. Engineering services involve electronics systems design and support, specialized systems fabrication, and technical training services. The majority of engineering services performed are elements of complex military weapon systems programs. Engineered products include high-quality printed circuit boards for the electronics industry; emergency power products for office buildings, factories and public buildings; mechanical components and pressure gauges for original equipment manufacturers.

Divisions and Subsidiaries:

Aeroscientific Corporation (98% owned)
184 E. Liberty Avenue
Anaheim, California 92801
(714) 871-8110
Manufactures printed circuit boards.

Phoenix Printed Circuits, Inc.
10017 North 19th Avenue
Phoenix, Arizona 85021
(602) 944-2679
Manufactures circuit boards.

Digital Applications, Inc. (87% owned)
2519 National Drive
Garland, Texas 75041
A manufacturer of printed circuit boards.

Custom Systems Associates, Inc.
14100 N.W. Science Park Drive
Portland, Oregon 97229
Manufactures printed circuit boards.

Hydrotronics, Inc.
7926 Jones Branch Drive
Suite 500
McLean, Virginia 22101
(703) 790-5270
Conducts research activities in the area of military underwater communications and underseas warfare systems; engineering and fabrication of electronic warfare threat simulators, microwave transmitter and antenna systems, digital control and interface systems, and electronic countermeasures, jammers, receivers and decoys.

Siltron Illumination, Inc.
1960 West 139th Street
Gardena, California 90249
(213) 770-0985
Produces and designs architecturally compatible emergency lighting systems and emergency power equipment used for essential systems such as fire alarms, communications systems, and industrial pumps, blowers and motors.

Catel Telecommunications, Inc.
(formerly United Scientific Corp.)
Mountain View, California
(415) 969-9400
Manufactures and markets communications equipment and analytical instruments. The signal processing equipment is used in CATV and other cable communications systems and is compatible with coaxial cable, microwave, satellite and fiber optics means of transmission.

Sierra Precision
Cucamonga, California
Produces high pressure gauges and hoses, depth gauges and related products.

Irlandus Circuits Limited
Craigavon, Northern Ireland
Produces printed wiring boards.

A.J. Electronics, Inc.
Inserts electrical components into printed wiring boards.

DDL Omni Engineering Corp.
Defense contracting.

Divisions and Subsidiaries:

INSTRUMENTS

EG&G ORTEC
100 Midland Road
P.O. Box C
Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37830
(615) 482-4411

Radiation detectors and associated electronics for nuclear research, radiation monitoring, materials analysis, and industrial quality control.

EG&G Princeton Applied Research
7 Roszel Road
P.O. Box 2565
Princeton, New Jersey 08540
(609) 452-2111

Electronic signal detectors and analyzers for plasma research, fiberoptic measurements, laser diagnostics and quality control in the manufacture of semiconductors and magnetic recording media. Electrochemical instruments for analysis of wastewater, foods and medicine, and corrosion rates.

EG&G Geometrics
395 Java Drive
P.O. Box 497
Sunnyvale, California 94086
(408) 734-4616

Geophysical survey instrumentation. Specifically, airborne and marine magnetometers, gammaray spectrometers, seismographs, and related recording equipment. Slim-hole logging instruments for natural resource exploration. Airborne surveys for mineral and energy-resource exploration.

EG&G Environmental Equipment Division
Burlington, Massachusetts
Tulsa, Oklahoma

Side-scan sonar systems and related instruments for the military and for academic institutions involved in oceanography and geophysics. Dewpoint hygrometers used by industry to monitor moisture in gases.

EG&G Chandler Engineering Company
7707 East 38th Street
Tulsa, Oklahoma 74145
(918) 627-1740

High-pressure, high-temperature testers for oil well cement and drilling fluids used in energy production. Precision pressure calibration instruments.

EG&G Ocean Products
Cataumet, Massachusetts

Oceanography instruments. Specifically, acoustic releases, conductivity-temperature-depth systems, current meters, transponer navigation systems, and laboratory standards equipment for the military, academic institutions, and industry.

EG&G Gamma Scientific
San Diego, California

Instruments and systems for detecting and measuring optical radiation.

EG&G Mount Sopris Instruments
Delta, California

Logging instruments for natural resource exploration.

EG&G Wakefield Systems
Wakefield, Massachusetts

Testing equipment for integrated-circuit devices.

COMPONENTS

EG&G Rotron
7 Hasbrouck Lane
Woodstock, New York 12498
(914) 679-2401

Fans and blowers for cooling electronic equipment and for industrial applications. Motors and related drive systems for computer peripherals and industrial machinery. Power supplies for military and industrial uses. Protective enclosures for printed cicuit boards. Heat-transfer devices for semiconductor cooling and systems for testing integrated-circuit devices.

EG&G Fluid Components Technology Group
Warwick, Rhode Island

Seals and bellows devices from EG&G Sealol used in systems involving engines, motors, gearboxes, pumps, and compressors. Applications in aerospace, marine, military, petrochemical, chemical processing, and other industrial markets. Tensioner systems for manway covers in nuclear plants. Solenoid and mechanical valves from EG&G Wright Components for aerospace and defense applications. Precision metal gaskets for jet engines and flexible ducting for the aircraft industry from EG&G Pressure Science. Formed metal components and assemblies for the aircraft industry from EG&G Aerofab.

EG&G Electron Devices Group

EG&G Electro-Optics
35 Congress Street
Salem, Massachusetts 01970
(617) 745-3200

Flashtubes and power supplies for phototypesetters, office copiers, laser scribers, and microfilm equipment and for use in stroboscopy, material curing, beaconry and laser-fusion research. Silicon photodiodes and instruments for detecting and measuring light. Instruments and systems to measure optical radiation. Precision timers. Automate light-sensing switches.

EG&G Frequency Products
Salem, Massachusetts

Precision frequency-control devices for military and some commercial applications. Specifically, rubidium atomic frequency standards, crystals and crystal-based oscillators, precision filters, discriminators, and equalizers.

EG&G Reticon
345 Potrero Avenue
Sunnyvale, California 94086
(408) 738-4266

Signal processing devices for communications, computer, musical-instrument, and speech-recognition applications. Modem filters for data communications. Photodiode arrays for optical character recognition and facsimile transmission and image sensors for industrial quality, and process control. Camera sensor systems for industrial automation, robotics, and noncontact measurement inspection, and control.

EG&G Vactec
St. Louis, Missouri

Custom, commercial optoelectronic components for street light controls, television brightness controls, and slide projectors. Photodiodes used in smoke detectos, cameras, and medical and chemical instruments. Sensing devices used in photocopiers, computer peripherals, and industrial controls.

EG&G Almond Instruments
Covina, California

Power supplies.

EG&G Frank Hill Associates
National City, California

Heat exchangers and air movers for cooling electronics equipment.

EG&G CEA Berkleonics
San Luis Obispo, California

Power supplies.

EG&G Cirtech
Shawnee Mission, Kansas

Frequency-control components, including precision filters, discriminators, and equalizers.

EG&G Photon Devices
Salem, Massachusetts

Silicon photodiodes to detect and measure optical radiation.

EG&G Birtcher Industrial Products
El Monte, California

Printed circuit board card guides, accessories, and racks and enclosures.

EG&G CINOX
Cincinnati, Ohio

Quartz crystals and crystal-based oscillators.

EG&G Wakefield Components
Wakefield, Massachusetts

Heat exchangers and other heat-transfer units.

ENVIRONMENTAL AND BIOMEDICAL TESTING SERVICES

EG&G Automotive Research, Inc.
5404 Bandera Road
San Antonio, Texas 78238
(512) 684-2310

Service to the automotive and petroleum industries and to the federal government by means of mobile and stationary testing of passenger cars, trucks, motorcycles, fuels, lubricants, automotive components, and vehicle emissions.

EG&G Mason Research Institute, Inc.
57 Union Street
Worcester, Massachusetts 01608
(617) 791-9831

Biomedical research support services. Commercial toxicology and studies in reproductive physiology and drug abuse. In vivo testing to evaluate the effectiveness of products developed for cancer treatment.

CUSTOM SERVICES AND SYSTEMS

EG&G Florida, Inc.

EG&G, Inc.

Management of technical operations, administrative services, utilities, facilities, and health and security services at NASA's Kennedy Space Center.

EG&G Washington Analytical Services Center, Inc.
1396 Piccard Drive
Rockville, Maryland 20850
(301) 840-3000
Planning, engineering, management support to U.S. defense, energy, and s[illegible] programs. Scientific instrumentation and field support on [illegible] programs being conducted by the U.S. and by foreign [illegible]ments.

EG&G, Inc.
Electronic Components Division
35 Congress Street
Salem, Massachusetts 01970
(617) 745-32[illegible]
High-reliability electronic components (thyratrons, sprytrons, krytrons, spark gaps, and over-voltage gaps) and associated assemblies for defense and energy programs and for industrial applications.

EG&G Services
Knoxville, Tennessee
Electronic security systems for government and industry; security services in risk assessment, technical support, testing, training and evaluation.

EG&G Special Projects, Inc.
2755 E. Desert Inn Road
P.O. Box 15110 (Zip 89114)
Las Vegas, Nevada 89121
(702) 369-3000

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY SUPPORT

EG&G Idaho, Inc.
PO Box 1625
Idaho Falls, Idaho 83415
(208) 526-0111
Support to nuclear and non-nuclear energy programs at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory. Management and operation of facilities for research and development in reactor safety, materials irradiation, fusion safety, and nuclear-waste management.

EG&G Energy Measurements, Inc.
Las Vegas Operations
2621 N. Losee Road (North Las Vegas)
P.O Box 1912
Las Vegas, Nevada 89125
(702) 295-5511
Technical and scientific support in nuclear weapons effects testing and in non-nuclear energy programs. Airborne radiation surveillance and remote sensing.

Reynolds Electrical & Engineering Co., Inc.
2501 Wyandotte Street
P.O. Box 14400
Las Vegas, Nevada 89114
(702) 295-3379
Management and support functions at DOE's Nevada Test Site. Services including electrical and architectural engineering facility and road construction and maintenance, nuclear-waste management, large-diameter and conventional drilling, mining and tunneling, radiation monitoring, medical and health care, communications, occupational safety, fire protection, and dosimetry and fall-out research.

Areas of Work: Engaged in the discovery, development, manufacture and sale of products in three principal industries: human health, agriculture and cosmetics. The human health segment includes pharmaceuticals, electronic medical instrument systems, implantable cardiac pacemakers, empty gelatin capsules, packaging products, and bulk chemicals. Pharmaceuticals include analgesics, an antiarthritic agent, antibiotics, antidiabetic agents, hematinics, hormones, oncolytic agents, sedatives, vitamins, and other pharmaceuticals for human use. Electronic medical instrument systems include products for measuring patient temperatures and for administering and monitoring intravenous fluid infusions. The agriculture segment includes agricultural chemicals and animal health products. Agricultural chemicals are principally herbicides for controlling weeds in various crops. Animal health products include a nonhormonal cattle feed additive that improves feed efficiency; various antibiotics for promoting feed efficiency and growth in swine, and anti-coccidial agent for use in broilers and layer replacements, and other products for livestock, poultry, and pet animals. The cosmetics segment includes the Elizabeth Arden Line and Parfums Lagerfeld products. The Elizabeth Arden Line includes skincare preparations, make-up products, and fragrances. Parfums Lagerfeld products are marketed under the trademarks Chloe and Lagerfeld and include fragrance products.

Electronics Operations:

IVAC Corporation
Campus Point, California
(714) 453-4320
Worldwide manufacturing and marketing of electronic medical instrument systems, including intravenous infusion devices and electronic thermometers.

Cardiac Pacemakers, Inc.
St. Paul, Minnesota

Officers: Sheldon Bitko, president; Alfred R. Senni, exec. v.p. & chief exec. officer; Elaine H. Cain, secretary & treasurer.

Directors: Frederick J. Grunwald, Charles Wohlstetter, Charles Davidoff, Frederick C. Scherer, Lee R. Marks.

Areas of Work: The Company's business falls into three broad groups: manufacture of telemetry equipment, industrial components and glass metal seals. The principal products of the telemetry group include electronic and electromechanical signal commutators, sometimes coupled with analog to digital converters. The primary markets for this type of equipment are the defense and the aerospace industries; secondary markets are the Atomic Energy Commission and other private industries. The principal products of the components group include a family of mercury film switches and relays (sold under the name LOGCELL, or more specifically LC1, LC2 and LC3), sold mostly to industrial users. Other components include tilt switches for military and industrial applications and slip rings used by the military and aerospace manufacturers. Glass-metal seals are hermetic seals which allow electric signals into a chamber without allowing in the outside atmosphere or any contamination. These seals are used in light bulbs, transistors, tubes, relays and a myriad of other components.

Area of Work: Aerospace products and services span space sciences, radar systems, electronics and microelectronics, ordnance systems, avionics, computer software, space satellites, and simulation and control systems. Most aerospace sales are to agencies of the United States government, principally the Department of Defense and NASA.

Aircraft engines and replacement parts are manufactured and sold by GE for use in military and commercial aircraft, for use in naval ships and for use as industrial power sources. GE's military engines are used in a wide variety of aircraft that includes fighters, bombers, transports and helicopters. GE also produces jet engines for executive aircraft and regional commuter airlines.

Consumer products include video, audio and lighting products. Video products include black-and-white and color television receivers and video cassette recorders and cameras sold under both the GE and RCA brand names. Audio products include radios, tape recorders, citizens band radios and household telephone products using GE brand names. Lighting products include a wide variety of lamps; incandescent, fluorescent, high-intensity, halogen and specialty as well as wiring devices, lighting fixtures and ballasts, rechargeable batteries and quartz products.

The Industrial segment includes factory automation products, comprised of electrical and electronic products, including drive systems; semiconductor operations, including an affiliate, Intersil, which is a supplier of advanced integrated circuits and data acquisition products; motors and motor-related products, consisting mainly of appliance motors and controls; electrical distribution and circuit protection equipment needed for installation in commercial, industrial and residential buildings; the GE Supply Company Division, which operates a nationwide network of electrical supply houses; transportation systems, which include diesel-electric and electric locomotives, transit propulsion equipment, motorized wheels for off-highway vehicles, and drilling drives.

The major appliance segment includes both GE and Hotpoint brands of kitchen and laundry equipment, such as refrigerators, ranges, microwave ovens, freezers, dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and room air conditioners.

The materials segment includes high-performance engineering plastics, silicones, industrial cutting materials, laminates and ceramics. This segment also includes Ladd Petroleum Corporation, an oil and natural gas developer and supplier.

The power systems segment provides products for the generation, transmission and distribution of electricity; industrial drives; and related construction, installation, engineering and repair services.

Technical products and services include medical systems and services, communications and information services, and the Calma Company. Medical systems include magnetic resonance (MR) scanners, computer tomography (CT) scanners, x-ray, nuclear imaging, ultrasound, and other diagnostic equipment and supporting services; principal communications operations involve the furnishing of domestic satellite communications services by RCA Americom and the furnishing of international communications services by RCA Globcom; mobile communications products consist mainly of mobile and hand-carried two-way and one-way radio equipment and cellular telephones; the Calma Company designs, manufactures and sells interactive graphics systems for computer-aided design and manufacturing.

GE is also involved in network television through the National Broadcasting Company, and in financial services through the General Electric Credit Corporation, Employers Reinsurance Corporation, and the 80%-owned Kidder, Peabody Group Inc.

Electronic Controls & Systems

Products include equipment for each major segment of semiconductor manufacture, from crystal growing furnaces, and wafer polishers, through deposition and spin-brake equipment, wafer steppers, washer and dicing systems, to testing and packaging equipment. For the telecommunications industry, products include voice, data, digital microwave radio, and fiber optic signal processing and transmission equipment, test and measurement systems, central office power sources, and land-based mobile radio systems. For the process industries, products include computer-directed central control systems, distributed control systems, electronic instrumentation, and electronically controlled feeders and scales. Products for electric utilities include management systems, coal metering equipment, boiler and scrubber controls, and remote-controlled radioactive-waste handling systems. For railroad systems, products include highly engineered systems and controls, including cab, wayside, and centralized traffic control components and systems,and push-button interlocking controls. For bus mass transit, products include central control systems and electronic fareboxes. For civil and defense air traffic control and navigation, included are radar navigation, identification and ground weather monitoring systems. Shipboard communication systems and propulsion controls are provided to the marine industry; power conditioning equipment is produced for numerous markets to safeguard vital or sensitive electronic equipment.

Electrical Controls & Equipment

Products for the construction market include such electrical controls and components for power distribution as transformers and switchgear, fire protection and building signaling systems, electric metering equipment, and automatic time recording and parking lot control systems. For the cogeneration and refining fields, self-contained, unitized powerhouses are manufactured. Hazardous-location power distribution equipment is produced for the petroleum industry, and heat processing equipment is manufactured for the primary and fabricated metals and electronics industries.

Fluid Controls & Equipment

Products include specialty, telemetry, and supervisory control systems, valves and actuators, mechanical mixers, and aerators; centrifugal, turbine, high-vacuum, and wastewater pumps; instruments for measuring pressure, flow, and temperature; biological waste-treatment systems; specialty air pollution control equipment; and corrosion control materials manufactured for the chemical, petrochemical, petroleum, food and beverage, primary and fabricated metals, pulp and paper, industrial and municipal water and waste-water processing, agriculture and construction industries. For the railroad industry, pneumatic and hydraulic braking systems and related controls are manufactured. Such control products as hydraulic gear pumps and directional control valves, piston pumps and motors, hydrostatic transmissions, advanced fluid power systems, and cold-forged components for vehicular steering and suspension are manufactured for the heavy-duty mobile construction, aerospace and defense, mining, materials-handling, agricultural, auto and truck markets.

Directors: Paul Penfield, Jr., Earle W. Pitt, W. Hardie Shepard, William R. Thurston, Wilson Wilde, James H. Wright, Lawrence L. Mayhew.

Areas of Work: Manufactures test equipment for the electronic equipment, mechanical equipment and semiconductor industries. The company's computer-based test systems are used by electronics manufacturers to test printed circuit boards and isolate faults down to the individual component level. Electronic component test instruments indicate whether capacitors, resistors, inductors, or integrated circuits are functioning properly. Digital signal processors analyze structures and machinery. Acoustic instrumentation products analyze and measure noise, and are widely used to test compliance with industrial and environmental noise regulations.

Areas of Work: Specializes in the design, manufacture, sale and service of computer-aided design and computer-aided manufacturing (CAD/CAM) products in computer-controlled drafting and photoplotting, low-cost interactive design, computerized marker making, material nesting, cutting and handling, and sophisticated turnkey interactive graphic production systems which integrate several design and manufacturing processes, and microprocessor-controlled production systems. Gerber automation systems are used by a wide range of industries, including aerospace, apparel, automotive, electronics, tool die, printing, graphic arts, sign-making and optical lens manufacturing.

Subsidiaries:

The Gerber Scientific Instrument Company
83 Gerber Road West
South Windsor, Connecticut 06074
(203) 644-1551

Designs and manufactures task-oriented, turnkey interactive systems which are used in high precision drafting and photoplotting. These computer-controlled systems are used to automate the production of critical engineering drawings and artwork and other documentation for printed circuit boards and film page layouts for the graphic arts industry.

Gerber Garment Technology, Inc.
24 Industrial Park Road
Tolland, Connecticut
(203) 871-8082

Designs and manufactures CAD/CAM systems for the layout and cutting of flexible materials such as fabrics, textiles, leather, vinyls, plastics, fiberglass and advanced composite materials. The computer-aided design (CAD) systems automate sizing and arranging of pattern pieces to maximize material usage. The computer-aided manufacturing systems use the data generated by the design systems to cut the materials. The computer-controlled material handling system for the apparel industry delivers sequentially fabricated apparel parts between sewing room operators.

Gerber Systems Technology (84% owned)
425 Sullivan Avenue

Industrial Controls Division
Measurement Systems Division

International Cybernetics Corporation
Manufacturer of advanced computerized controls for factory and machine automation.

Computer Systems Division
Fort Lauderdale, Florida
(305) 587-2900
Produces digital minicomputers for research, industrial process and control, for generation and distribution of electrical power and for exploration and development of new fuel and energy sources.

Industrial Automation Systems
North Andover, Massachusetts
Applications software, cell controllers, computer systems, flexible automation controllers, industrial local area networks, intelligent motion-control devices, I/O modules, machine vision systems, man-machine interfaces, programmable controllers, servo-drive systems, workstations.

Instrument Systems:
These include test and measurement instrumentation: logic analyzers, recording systems and digital storage oscilloscopes.

Design & Test Systems Division
Recording Systems Division

Gould Inc.

Electronic Components:

Components and materials for the electronics industry include application-specific MOS/VLSI (metal-oxide silicon/very-large-scale-integration) integrated circuits, electrolytic copper foil and circuit protection devices.

Areas of Work: Through the instrument and components group, manufactures electronic test and measurement products. These products include microwave semiconductors, light emitting diodes and fiber optic components, logic analyzers, voltmeters, frequency analyzers, power supplies, board testers, plotters, recorders, oscilloscopes, counters, frequency sources, network and signal analyzers, signal generators, automated test equipment, distance measurement instruments, component measurement equipment and microprocessor development systems. Computer and personal computation groups manufacture electronic data products. These products include small to medium scale computer systems for business, scientific and industrial applications, desktop computers, personal computers, personal scientific and business programmable calculators, data terminals, printers and disk and tape memories. The medical products group manufactures medical electronic equipment. These products include continuous monitoring system for critical care patients, medical data management systems, fetal monitors, electrocardiographs and related interpretive and stress, pulmonary function analyzers, cardiac catheterization laboratory systems, blood gas measuring instruments, ultrasonic imaging systems, cardiac defibrillators and hospital supplies. Products of the analytical instrumentation group include gas chromatographs, liquid chromatographs, mass spectrometers combined with chromatographs, spectrophotometers, laboratory automation systems and integrators.

MICROWAVE AND COMMUNICATIONS INSTRUMENT GROUP

Colorado Telecommunications Division
5060 Centennial Boulevard
Colorado Springs, Colorado 80933
(303) 593-8700
Transmission-test instruments for testing digital and analog parameters of voice and data channels; data-communication network test equipment (protocol analyzers and digital and analog test instruments).

Queensferry Telecommunications Division
Hewlett-Packard Ltd.
South Queensferry
West Lothian EH30 9TG
Scotland
Dedicated test and measuring instruments and systems for telecommunications in the areas of microwave radio, FDM (frequency division multiplex), voice/data, PCM/TDM (pulse code modulation/time-division multiplex); transmission-impairment measuring sets and sweep oscillators.

Queensferry Microwave Operation
South Queensferry
West Lothian EH30 9TG
Scotland
Products for mobile communications, RF (radio frequency) communications, and cellular radio.

Stanford Park Division
1501 Page Mill Road
Palo Alto, California
(415) 857-1500
Microwave signal generators and synthesizers; noise-figure meters; power meters; coaxial and waveguide measuring equipment.

Spokane Division
1620 Signal Drive TAF C-34
Spokane, Washington 99220
(509) 922-4001
RF (radio frequency) signal generators and synthesizers, RF measuring receivers and RF transceiver test equipment.

Signal Analysis Division
1212 Valley House Drive
Rohnert Park, California 94928
(707) 525-1400
Radio-frequency and microwave spectrum analyzers and related signal analysis equipment.

Network Measurements Division
1400 Fountain Grove Parkway
Santa Rosa, California 95404
(707) 525-1400
RF (radio frequency) and microwave-network analyzers (vector and scalar); sweep oscillators and synthesized sweep-signal generators.

Microwave Technology Division
1400 Fountain Grove Parkway
Santa Rosa, California 95404
(707) 525-1400
High frequency transistors and diodes, SAW (surface-acoustical-wave) devices, YIG (ytrium-iron-garnet) spheres; integrated circuits, thick and thin film circuits and microwave packages, all for HP divisions.

INFORMATION NETWORKS GROUP

Roseville Networks Division
8000 Foothills Blvd.
Roseville, California 95678
(916) 786-8000
Measurement and control automation products, HP computer I/O (input/output) cards and data communications products.

Areas of Work: The company has operations in three major business segments: Aerospace, Automotive, and Commercial/Industrial.

LSI develops instruments and systems for military, commercial and general aviation aircraft and major missile and space programs; produces propjet and piston-powered Piper aircraft and is a manufacturer of remotely piloted vehicles.

The company produces automotive products for original equipment manufacturers, primarily seating and air suspension systems; and for the replacement market, including windshields and brake parts.

LSI also produces material handling systems for manufacturing and distribution facilities, boats and handguns for the recreational market, furniture components and housewares, heating and air conditioning units and pre-engineered metal buildings, in addition to manufacturing and merchandising raw cotton and its by-products.

Areas of Work: The Company's operations are divided into three segments: Aerospace, Information Systems, and Materials. The Aerospace segment, itself, is composed of three sub-divisions: Space and strategic systems which consist mainly of launch vehicles, spacecraft and instruments, major systems integration, and certain command, control, communications, and intelligence systems. The electronics and tactical systems sub-division is involved in the development and production of missile systems, precision guided projectiles, and air defense target acquisition and designation, navigation, and communications control systems. Aero-mechanical systems programs include missile launching systems, jet engine fan reversers, air-frame component manufacturing and assembly, and combat systems development, engineering, production and integration.

The Data Systems segment provides computing services, computer software, information systems management, and consulting services to government and commercial customers and manages the Company's internal computer operations.

The Materials segment consists of aggregates operations principally engaged in quarrying, processing, and selling crushed stone and gravel — primarily for highway and general construction and railroad ballast — and magnesia specialties operations, which quarry, process, and sell refractory materials used in steel production, chemical processing, and other industrial applications.

Directors: Luther B. Nicholson, Nicholas Nadolsky, James K. Murphey, H. Kent Hearn, William J. Holt, Woodrow Brownlee.

Areas of Work: Engaged in the design, development, manufacture, and sale of hybrid microcircuits and optoelectronic components, assemblies and microcircuits. The technologies employed by Micropac in the production of hybrid microcircuits include thick film, thin film, solder assembly, chip and wire assembly, custom and standard. The principal markets for the products and services of Micropac are among manufacturers of both analog and digital circuits in military and industrial computers, communications equipment, electronic instrumentation and control equipment and other systems requiring microminiature electronic circuits.

Divisions:

Hybrid Circuits Division
Designs, develops and manufactures custom digital, analog and RF hybrid microcircuits incorporating both thick and thin film hybrid technologies.

Power Products Division
Designs, develops and manufactures both standard and custom hybrid power functions incorporating thick and thin film hybrid technologies.

Optoelectronics Division
Designs, develops and manufactures both standard and custom optoelectronic components, assemblies and optoelectronic/hybrid microcircuits incorporating both thick and thin film hybrid technologies.

Microwave Division
Offers a complete family of voltage controlled oscillator subsystems covering the 10MHz to 15MHz frequency range. VCO subsystems include options for linearization, internally heated, and voltage regulated. These units are used for multi-target simulators, ECM, ECCM, Radar, Microwave Sweep Generators and next-generation equipment applications.

Areas of Work: Engaged in the manufacture of a wide range of thermal systems for the steel, metalworking, automotive, petroleum, petrochemical, glass and other industries; electrical products for the commercial, industrial and residential building markets; electronic connectors and other components for the telecommunications, data processing, instrumentation and other markets; aircraft components and systems for the commercial, military and general aviation markets.

Divisions and Subsidiaries:

Thermal Systems Group

Electro-Nite Co.
Philadelphia, Pa.; Long Beach, Calif.; Houthalen, Belgium; San Paulo, Brazil; Thionville, France; Syndey, Australia.
Expendable sensors and related instruments for metals producers; carbon graphite products.

MOCO Thermal Industries
Romulus, Mich.
Industrial ovens, parts washers and finishing systems for manufacturers of metal products for the electrical, transportation, glass and other industries.

Robotron Division
Southfield and Oak Park, Mich.; Windsor, Ontario.
Industrial electronic controls, including resistance welding controls, industrial power electronics and microcomputer-based industrial control systems; induction heating equipment.

Stein Heurtey
Bar-le-Duc, Lautenbach and Saint-Ouen l'Aumone, France; Wombourne, England; Victoria, Australia.
Furnaces, heaters and heat transfer equipment for the oil and petrochemical industries; melting, reheating, heat-treating, heat transfer and coating furnaces for the steel, ferrous and non-ferrous industries; glass furnaces and lehrs; special vacuum and atmosphere furnaces; gas generators; industrial drying and metal finishing plants; industrial burners; combustion and waste treatment equipment.

Surface Combustion Division
Toledo, Ohio
Heat-treating furnaces and supplementary equipment and controls used by the metalworking industries to impart desirable surface characteristics to manufactured metal products. High-temperature industrial furnace equipment and technology for refining, melting, reheating and heat-treating in the steel, non-ferrous, carbon and glass industries.

Petro-Chem Development Company
New York, New York
Fired process heaters, heat recovery process units and boilers, combustion air preheat systems and energy conservation systems for the petroleum and petrochemical industries.

Aerospace and Electrical Group

Electronic Connector Division
Cambridge, Mass.; Pittsfield, N.H.,; Pompano Beach, Fla.; Nogales, Mexico; Castleton, England.
Electronic components including miniature plug and jack connectors, integrated circuit sockets, terminal and splice connectors, socket panels and card files; insulated, non-insulated and wrap post terminals; spacers and standoffs; coil form inductors, battery holders, handles and panel hardware; thermoelectric modules and instruments.

Electrical Products Division
Pittsburgh, Pa.; Athens, Tenn.
Switch, outlet and floor boxes; conduit and cable fittings; hangers and supports; underfloor and trench header electrical distribution systems; metal framing systems for supporting conduit, cable, lighting and equipment; wiring products including solderless terminals, compression connectors, cable ties, wire marker books, heat-shrink tubing and relating tooling.

Grimes Division
Urbana, Ohio; Greenwood, S.C.
Aircraft navigation, formation and collision avoidance lighting systems, power supplies and controls; crew station displays, caution and warning systems, indicators, control panels and instrument lights; passenger cabin illumination, including emergency and reading lights, information signs, accent lighting and related electronic switching and dimming controls; wind-shield wiper systems; electroluminescent lamps, displays, control panels and signal devices for the aviation, auto, rail and other markets.

Aircraft Products Division
Delray Beach, Fla.
Aircraft galleys and service centers, carts, ovens, beverage makers, coffee makers and water boilers; lavatory water heaters.

Janitrol Aero Division
Columbus, Ohio; Plymouth, Conn.; Ocala, Fla.
Aircraft cabin heating, air-conditioning and pressurization systems; fuel filters; fans and blowers; heat transfer equipment; electronic cooling equipment; hydraulic, fuel and pneumatic valves; motor-operated valves; thermostatic controls and pressure valves; duct joints and supports; swivel extension joints; aircraft heaters; liquid heaters.

Midtex Division
North Mankato, Minn.; Watertown, S.D.; Burlington, Wis.; Seoul, Korea; Juarez, Mexico.
Miniature, power, solid state, general purpose, mercury-wetted, industrial and time delay relays for industrial controls, business machines, data processing and communications equipment, commercial electronics and energy management; transformers and couplers for telecommunications; quartz crystals and hybrid clock oscillators for timing references in computer-based electronic controls and instrumentation; DC-DC converters for telephones.

Electripak Consumer Products
Lindenhurst and North Amityville, N.Y.
Weatherproof die-cast switch and outlet boxes, cover plates, outdoor security lighting; outdoor decorative lighting; emergency lighting; multiple power outlet strips; photoelectric switching devices; low voltage lighting.

Russellstoll Division
Livingston and Fairfield, N.J.
Safety interlock receptacles, plugs and connectors; explosion-proof vaportight and high-intensity discharge lighting fixtures; electrical control devices; marine plugs, receptacles, lighting and controls; trolley and plug-in overhead electrification systems.

Superstrut Division
Oakland, Calif.;
Metal framing channel, fittings and hangers for electrical, mechanical, plumbing and refrigeration construction support requirements; seismic restraint systems for power plants and commercial buildings.

Castings Group

Bay City Foundry Co.
Bay City, Mich.
Medium to large-size carbon, low alloy, wear-resistant and stainless steel castings and grey, alloy and ductile iron castings for the automotive industry, steel mills and general industrial use; base and surface plates for dynamometer and stress testing, machine tooling and precision checking.

Capitol Castings Division
Tempe and Chandler, Ariz.
Naco cast alloy steel grinding balls; iron and steel castings for wear-resistant and structural applications.

Areas of Work: Manufactures advanced controls and control systems which utilize high performance servovalves for industrial and aerospace applications; manufactures numerically controlled metalcutting machine tools and computer numerically controlled machine tools throughout the world.

Divisions:

Industrial Controls Group
Manufactures electrohydraulic controls for the guidance systems of space boosters, missiles, and aircraft. For industrial markets, produces controls for machine tools, computer memory access systems, construction equipment, plastic molding equipment, and other process control systems.

Electronic Motion Controls Division
Manufactures and markets electronic motion controls products.

International Controls Division
Identifies and develops markets outside North America for precision control components and systems.

Aerospace Group

Missile Systems Division
Supplier of servovalves for missiles.

Aircraft Controls Division
Manufactures various types of servoactivators, hydromechanical control systems and helicopter products.

Space Products Division
Produces components for propulsion systems to control flight path.

Engine Controls Division

Carleton Group
Produces precision pneumatic components and systems.

Electronics & Systems Division
Product lines include plastic controls, secure radio controls, custom control systems, and specialized electronics assemblies.

Areas of Work: The Company operates in three business segments: aerospace, specialty chemicals, and salt.

The aerospace segment consists of propulsion and ordnance products and services performed principally under contracts and subcontracts with various U.S. government agencies and aerospace prime contractors. Propulsion includes research, development, and production of solid propellant rocket motors systems for space vehicles, such as the Space Shuttle (booster motors); to position satellites in orbit; for strategic missiles, such as the Trident (submarine launched) and Peacekeeper; and for tactical missiles, such as the Maverick, Sidewinder & HARM. This propulsion technology has also been applied in the manufacture of gas generators for use in automobile passive restraint systems. Ordnance includes the development and production of air-dropped flares, ground-launched flares, munitions simulators for training, and conventional artillery munitions. Services include launch and recovery operations for the Space Shuttle.

The specialty chemical segment manufactures high technology chemical products for a wide variety of customer applications. The largest product group consists of laminating adhesives and coatings designed primarily for use in the manufacture of food packaging materials from paper, film and foil. The second largest group consists of chemicals for the electronics market, including principally dry film photoresists and curable screen resists used as part of a process to imprint patterns onto printed circuit boards and semiconductors (silicon chips).

The salt segment produces and sells salt principally in the U.S. and Canada under the MORTON and WINDSOR trademarks, for human and animal consumption, water conditioning, and highway ice melting, as well as for industrial and chemical uses.
